Just 55 miles east of Palm Beach and 80 miles east of Miami, Grand Bahama Island is beautiful, exotic and it is the gateway for all of the Greater and Lesser Antilles, located only three hours away on the open sea. Better yet, a charter flight gets you there in under half an hour. The island's picturesque West End settlement offers white sandy beaches, relaxed elegance, easy boat and plane access, bone-fishing nirvana and provides the ideal location for Ginn ResortsSM heroic vision of Ginn sur Mer.SM Grand Bahama Island will be the canvas on which Ginn Resorts will create a resort masterpiece.

Ginn sur Mer will feature an impeccably designed grand palace as the central and defining point of the entire community. Within its elegant walls will be a variety of dining experiences, as well as world-class shopping, inviting spas, night clubs, activity centers for children and a Monte Carlo-inspired casino. Ginn sur Mer's 2,000 tropical acres will offer a world-class marina and private airport — both with Bahamian Customs and Immigration for easy access; an island golf experience designed by Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer; a Grand Canal that will wind throughout the entire property; and a series of gardens, fountains and pools.

Within Ginn sur Mer will also lie an intimate neighborhood offering romantic waterfront island bungalows along with a Bahamian beach club with dining and cocktail service. Water taxis will connect this neighborhood with the rest of the resort, and so intimate will it be with the surrounding waterfront that you may choose to paddle a kayak from your back door out to the ocean or even snorkel in your backyard lagoon.

Ginn's creation at Ginn sur Mer goes beyond that of the Grand Canal, the Signature Golf Experience and even the Palace itself. What's envisioned is an experience that perfectly combines the beauty and adventure of island living while continuing to exude an elevated level of luxury and grandeur reminiscent of the French Riviera. It provides a lifestyle that incorporates the sea, the setting, the architecture, the amenities, the community design, the abundance of activities and the service. Just as the physical traits of Ginn sur Mer will be elevated above any previous offerings, the service you'll experience will be on par with royal hospitality.
