

Dear Member,

Another spring is upon us and planning for summer cruising adventures has begun, even for many northern boaters that are just getting their boats out of winter storage. We understand that cruising is important, now more than ever before and for many of you, myself included, boating is the perfect escape. Boating creates an escape from the outside world and a break from the constant barrage of negative news surrounding us.

Boating opens up new ways to spend quality time with your family and friends and is a great way to experience new destinations and use your boat as a floating hotel. The term I have been hearing is “staycations” where you can stay on your boat for a week vacation at some of the top destination resorts and enjoy all of the amenities of a full resort including the spa, golf, great dining, and more.

This issue we are featuring several getaway destinations for you to consider this summer. Try spending a week at National Harbor in Washington, DC or Montauk Yacht Club in Long Island, to experience a resort vacation while staying on your boat. Now, especially with lower fuel prices, is the perfect time to “getaway” on your boat whether for a night, weekend, or longer.

Marinalife will continue to make boating a stress-free experience and help you save money while you boat. This spring we are launching several new web site features that will save you money while you cruise and allow you to connect with fellow boaters to share cruising, marina, and navigation tips. Look for special offers from marinas, additional fuel locations and pricing along with member discounts on fuel, and the new Marinalife forum.

We are excited for a busy summer boating season! The team at Marinalife is standing by to help you plan your getaway. We look forward to hearing from you.
